

OFFICE OF THE CHANCELLOR

May 4, 2020

Dear LACCD Students,

Your success in higher education is our highest purpose at the Los Angeles Community College District (LACCD). I wanted to personally remind you how important it is that you take care of yourself physically and mentally during the current coronavirus public health emergency.

As an LACCD student at one of our nine colleges, you have access to your Student Health Center for both medical and mental health services. While the Health Centers are not physically open on our campuses, they all continue to maintain regular hours by telephone for your health needs. Part of their resources include virtual telemedicine and/or the ability to refer you to either their parent clinics or other local healthcare providers for in-person needs.

When you call the Student Health Center numbers below, please identify yourself as an LACCD student and your home college so they know how to best connect you to their services.

As part of this message, I am providing you with a list of the health centers for every LACCD college, along with their contact numbers and hours of operation. Nothing is more important than taking care of your physical and mental health and we urge you to use your college's Student Health Center resources when needed.

Also remember to check online with us at www.laccd.edu/coronavirus for updated information about the District, the colleges and student resources not only from LACCD but the surrounding communities as well.

If you are in crisis and you need immediate mental health assistance, you can also call Los Angeles County's Mental Health access line 24/7 at (800) 854-7771, or text them with "LA" to 741741 for confidential support from trained crisis counselors.

Please remember that you are not alone! We're here to support you. We are all in this together and it's OK if you feel concerned, anxious or worried about the current situation—we all feel the same way, but there are no-cost resources available right now for you to talk to someone if you need medical or mental health resources. My best wishes for your continued success. We got this!

With admiration and respect,
