LACCD FACTS

The Los Angeles Community College District was officially established in 1969, but two of its colleges, Los Angeles Trade-Technical College and Los Angeles City College, can proudly trace their historic roots back to the 1920s. During the 1940s, East, Harbor, Pierce and Valley colleges opened their doors; followed by Southwest and West in the 1960s and Mission in 1975. Today, the District covers about 900 square miles, with nine colleges serving the residents of more than 30 incorporated cities or county communities along with 11 public school districts of Los Angeles County. From those humble beginnings more than 85 years ago, the District's nine colleges, collectively, have helped to educate close to 4 million students.

Enrollment

LACCD is the largest community college district in California and among the largest in the nation. Currently, LACCD enrolls about 200,000 full- and part-time students at its nine colleges. For the 2020–2021 Academic Year, enrollment was 220,432 students.

Academic Achievement

For 2020–2021, the District conferred more than 33,700 awards, including two-year degrees and certificates. Nearly 6,100 of those awards were transfer degrees. In addition, West Los Angeles College is the second highest producing community college in California for four-year bachelor’s degrees. In 2020–2021, 42 students earned their bachelor’s in Dental Hygiene, more than a 45-percent increase over the 29 students who were the first-ever in the District to receive similar bachelor’s degrees in 2018.

Los Angeles College Promise

The Los Angeles College Promise Program entered its fifth year of operations with the fall term of the 2021–2022 Academic Year. The student success program provides two full years of free tuition, free laptop computers, priority registration and access to educational and financial aid counseling for first-time, full-time students who enroll in the program. Nearly 25,000 students enrolled and more than 2,500 students graduated with Associate degree since the program first began in 2017.

Financial Aid

About half of all LACCD students report their incomes at near or below the poverty line. During the 2020–2021 Academic Year, LACCD distributed $245,919,135 in financial aid awards, not including student loans. This financial aid is critical to opening the doors of higher education to those who could not otherwise afford college. Research shows that an education at LACCD’s colleges is an important source of economic stability and upward mobility for some of the neediest residents of Los Angeles County. An LACCD graduate with an AA degree or certificate is likely to earn almost 40 percent more than persons who only have a high school diploma.

Diversity

LACCD is a leading educator in California for Latinx and African-American students, including DACA students. The District’s nine colleges combined educates nearly twice as many Latinx and African-American students than the University of California system. All nine colleges are designated as Hispanic Serving Institutions.

Veterans

LACCD proudly serves and welcomes all U.S. Veterans. During the 2020–2021 Academic Year, our colleges awarded 272 Associate degrees to Veterans and 199 certificates. Total enrollment of Veterans at the nine colleges is about 1,900.

LACCD Featured on PBS

Two LACCD colleges are part of a new PBS television series on the important role of California’s community colleges in training the workforce of today and tomorrow. “Inside California Education: Community Colleges” looks at the HireLAX construction jobs program at Los Angeles Southwest College and the highly successfully Nursing Program at Los Angeles Harbor College.
